GRANT RESOURCE GUIDE

RESOURCES FROM CONGRESSWOMAN UNDERWOOD

This Grant Resource Guide provides an overview of federal grants, tips and best practices for the application process, and information about how Congresswoman Lauren Underwood's office can help residents of the 14th District of Illinois seeking federal funding.

DEAR FRIENDS,

Thank you so much for your interest in learning more about the federal grant process as you serve our community.

The 14th District of Illinois is full of civically engaged citizens who are passionate about their communities and their ideas about how to improve the lives of their family, friends, and neighbors. Advocating for more federal funding that will benefit the residents of the 14th District of Illinois has been one of my highest priorities in Congress, and I'm often asked how non-profits, local governments, and other eligible grant seekers can apply for federal grants to support local projects or initiatives.

Federal grants are highly competitive and the process of researching and applying can be difficult and overwhelming, especially for someone who is new to the world of federal grants. This Grant Resource Guide provides an overview of grants, tips, and best practices for the various stages of the application process; information about how my office can help and suggestions for additional resources. I hope it proves a useful starting point for all of those who are new to the process, and an important reminder on how my office can be a partner and advocate for the many worthy organizations and local governments in the 14th District who apply for funding from the federal government each year.

From sending a monthly grant newsletter of federal funding opportunity announcements to writing letters of support for grant applications, I'm committed to making sure that my constituents have the resources and support they need when seeking federal funding. Please do not hesitate to reach out to my office if we can be of assistance to your organization or if you have any questions or encounter any problems with the information provided here.

I wish you the best of luck through this process and am looking forward to working with you.

Sincerely,

UNDERSTANDING GRANTS

WHAT IS A FEDERAL GRANT?

A grant is one of many different forms of federal financial assistance. Grants are a way the government funds ideas and projects to provide public services, stimulate the economy, support critical recovery initiatives, innovative research, and many other programs.

Federal grants are not benefits or entitlements to individuals. Grants are intended for projects serving broader needs at the local or state level. Most federal funding goes to state and local governments, which in turn may make subawards to local entities such as eligible nonprofit organizations.

Local governments seeking funds for community services, infrastructure, and economic revitalization may be eligible to tap into state or federal funds. Government funding may also be available for nonprofit organizations for initiatives such as establishing food kitchens or after-school tutoring programs.

Federal grants are not earmarks. Members of Congress do not direct spending or advocate for earmarks to any entity or specific state, locality, or congressional district other than through the formula or competitive grant process. Members of Congress can advocate for funding for grant programs through the appropriations process. Congresswoman Underwood can support organizations and municipalities in the 14th District of Illinois by writing letters of support for those who wish to apply for funding through the grant process. See the Assistance from Congresswoman Underwood section of this resource guide for more information on how our office can help those seeking federal funds.

WHAT IS NOT A GRANT: ASSISTANCE FOR INDIVIDUALS

Grants are not for individuals who may look to the government for assistance. Individuals seeking financial help may find the websites below useful:

- Individuals looking for earned federal benefits such as for child or health care, housing or energy costs, or disability or veterans' needs, should visit <http://www.benefits.gov> for more information on federal assistance
- Students seeking financial aid can search Student Aid at <https://studentaid.ed.gov/sa/>
- Individual looking for assistance to start or expand a small business should visit the Small Business Administration (SBA) website at <http://www.sba.gov> to find information on programs, loans, and advisory and technical assistance (such as business counseling) as well as contact information for local SBA offices.

Grant seekers may have seen or heard media advertisements claiming federal grants are available to help individuals. Sometimes, it's an ad for a "free grant" to pay for education costs, home repairs, home business expenses, or unpaid bills. However, the Federal Trade Commission (FTC), the nation's consumer protection agency, cautions individuals that "money for nothing" or "free government grant" offers are usually scams. Consumers should beware of paying "processing fees" for information that is available free to the public. If a grant seeker thinks they may have been a victim of a government grant scam, they should file a complaint with the FTC online at <https://reportfraud.ftc.gov>, or call toll-free, 1-877-FTC-HELP (1-877-382-4357); TTY: 1-866-653-4261.

WHO IS ELIGIBLE FOR FEDERAL GRANTS?

Determining that your organization is eligible to apply for and receive a federal grant is very important. If you are not legally eligible for a specific funding opportunity, you would waste a lot of time and money completing the application process.

Many groups or organizations are eligible to apply for government grants. Typically, most grantees fall into the following categories

GOVERNMENT ORGANIZATIONS

- State Governments
- Local Governments
- City or Township Governments
- Special District Governments
- Native American Tribal Governments (federally recognized)
- Native American Tribal Governments (other than federally recognized)

EDUCATION ORGANIZATIONS

- Independent School Districts
- Public and State Controlled Institutions of Higher Education
- Private Institutions of Higher Education

PUBLIC HOUSING ORGANIZATIONS

- Public Housing Authorities
- Indian Housing Authorities

NONPROFIT ORGANIZATIONS

- Nonprofits having a 501(c)(3) status with the IRS, other than institutions of higher education
- Nonprofits that do not have a 501(c)(3) status with the IRS, other than institutions of higher education

FOR-PROFIT ORGANIZATIONS

- Organizations other than small businesses

For the full legal eligibility requirements, you need to carefully read the application instructions that are attached to every funding opportunity on Grants.gov. The awarding agencies normally define eligibility in those instructions.

TYPES OF FEDERAL GRANTS

Discretionary Grants are a type of grant in which a federal agency selects the awardee (i.e., grant recipient) based on merit and eligibility. For discretionary grants, the federal awarding agencies review, assess, and evaluate the quality of the grant application to inform their funding decisions—it's a competitive process. With other types of grants, federal agencies have less discretion in the final funding decision.

Mandatory Grants are a type of grant that are awarded to each eligible applicant, generally a government entity, based on the conditions defined in the authorizing statute. Grant seekers may be more familiar with the terms block grant or formula grant. These can be types of mandatory grants the federal agency must award based on the eligibility, qualifications, or formula in the authorizing statute. Non-profits or other non-government entities may eventually receive this grant via pass-through funding. Depending on the grant program, the state or local government may use the mandatory grant funding to issue subawards to local entities to accomplish the purpose of the grant. For example, building a road or providing public education.

FORMULA GRANT is a type of mandatory grant that is awarded based on statistical criteria for specific types of work. The authorizing legislation and regulations define these statistical criteria and the amount of funds to be distributed. Medicaid is an example of a formula grant. Formula grants are much different than discretionary grants, in which organizations (and sometimes individuals) submit applications for a competitive review and selection process. Formula grants, in contrast, are noncompetitive.

BLOCK GRANTS refers to grant programs that provide federal assistance for broadly defined functions, such as community development or social services. Block grants allow the grant recipient more discretion than other grants in determining how to use the funds to meet a broader program goal. Block Grants are a type of mandatory grant. Federal block grants are typically for U.S. state or territory governments and allow these government entities to determine specifically how to allocate and spend the funding. Of course, there are rules and guidelines for implementation that vary with each grant program as defined in the authorizing statute. Nonprofits or other service providers may be eligible to receive block grant funds via pass-through funding from states or territories.

In some cases, one entity – the one who submitted the grant application – will serve as a pass-through to partnering entities, which are called subrecipients. The government funding they receive to carry out their responsibilities is called the subaward.

WHAT IS THE GRANT LIFECYCLE?

The grant lifecycle refers to the entire process a grant goes through—from creating the opportunity through implementation and ending with the closeout. While the grant lifecycle can be long and includes some complex elements, it also has a lot of consistency and follows a relatively linear path: pre-award phase, award phase, and post award phase.

The duration of the grant lifecycle and its phases varies based on several things: grant type, grant program, federal agency, and authorizing legislation. The duration of the Post Award phase varies the most because that is when implementation occurs (i.e., doing the work of the grant).

PRE-AWARD PHASE The beginning of the process that includes the grantor announcing the funding opportunity through the application submission and review of grant applications.

- Funding Opportunity Announcement (FOA): The awarding agencies prepare and publish FOAs based on the related legislation and their budget. An FOA includes all the pertinent information and requirements for an applicant to assess their eligibility, competency, and interest in the funding opportunity; in most cases FOAs are published on <https://grants.gov>
- Register to apply: Registering to apply for grants on Grants.gov includes several steps and types of registration, including DUNS, SAM.gov, and Grants.gov accounts. It's not a highly complex process, but it can take 1 to 3 weeks to complete, so please register as early as you can. Do not allow yourself to miss the application deadline because you waited until the last week to try to register.
- Complete an application: The application planning process is lengthy, but it is critical when considering all eligibility requirements and the competition grant seekers may face for funding. While the specific steps vary widely depending on the type of grant applied for, major components of the planning process include developing ideas, conducting research, writing a proposal, and completing the application.

- Application Review Process: Once the application submission deadline passes, the awarding agencies get to work reviewing the applications. The specific process for reviewing an application varies based on the type of grant you applied for. The generally applicable steps are as follows:
  - ⇒ Initial screening to ensure application is complete
  - ⇒ Programmatic review and assessment of the substance of the applications
  - ⇒ Financial review of proposed budgets

AWARD PHASE The shortest of the three phases, the award phase is when the federal agency notifies award recipients

- Notice of Award (NOA) is sent once the final award decisions are made. The NOA is the official, legally binding issuance of the award. When you or your organization accepts the grant (i.e., by signing the grant agreement or by drawing down funds) you become legally obligated to carry out the full terms and conditions of the grant.

POST AWARD PHASE The post award phase can be the longest phase, as it contains the implementation of the grant program, along with all the reporting and audits.

- Reporting: The agency monitors your progress and expenditures through various programmatic and financial reporting procedures, as well as using performance metrics per the grant agreement. While the majority of award recipients carry out the grants ethically and efficiently, these monitoring procedures are necessary to maintain transparency and to prevent fraud and abuse. The awarding agency typically has a grants management officer and program officer designated to each grant, both of which will work with you throughout the life of the grant.
- Auditing: Federal grant-making agencies and grant recipients are audited. The Government Accountability Office (GAO), Office of Inspector General (OIG), and various departments within each Federal agency monitor and analyze policies, expenditures, and other activities within each grant-making agency.

CLOSEOUT PHASE The closeout phase is where the grant process ends. In order to complete a closeout, you, the award recipient, must submit the final financial and programmatic reports.

KEY SOURCES FOR FEDERAL FUNDING OPPORTUNITIES

BETA.SAM.GOV

Official descriptions of more than 2,200 federal assistance programs (including grants, loans, and other financial and nonfinancial assistance) can be found on beta.SAM.gov. The website, produced by the General Services Administration (GSA), is currently in beta, and it houses federal assistance listings previously found on the now-retired Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance (CFDA). Each federal assistance program has a corresponding CFDA program number; these CFDA numbers are still used as numerical program identifiers. The site will eventually be renamed SAM.gov.

About 1,800 assistance programs are classified as grants. Assistance listing descriptions include:

- federal agency administering a program
- legislation authorizing the program
- objectives and goals of program
- types of financial or nonfinancial assistance
- uses and restrictions
- eligibility requirements
- application and award process
- criteria for selecting proposals
- amount of obligations for some past and current fiscal years
- range and average of financial assistance
- regulations, guidelines, and literature relevant to a program
- information contacts and headquarters, regional, and local offices
- related programs
- examples of funded projects
- formula and matching requirements, where applicable
- requirements for post-assistance reports

GRANTS.GOV

This is the centralized location for grant seekers to find and apply for federal funding opportunities. Today, the Grants.gov system houses information on over 1,000 grant programs and vets grant applications for federal grant-making agencies awarding more than $500 billion annually. After grant seekers identify federal programs in beta.SAM.gov, they may be directed to register and apply at Grants.gov when application announcements for competitive grants become available.

Grant seekers can use Grants.gov to:

- Check on notices of funding availability (NOFA) posted by federal agencies
- Access an RSS feed of grant opportunities and sign up to receive email notification of grant opportunities
- Register and download applications for current competitive funding opportunities from all 26 federal grants-making agencies.
- Find information on how to obtain a Dun and Bradstreet (DUNS) numbers and registering with the System for Award Management (SAM); both are required for all federal grants.

STATE ADMINISTERING AGENCIES

Many federal grants, such as formula and block grants, are awarded directly to state governments, which then set priorities for funding and allocate funds within that state. For more information on how a state intends to distribute federal formula funds, grant seekers can contact the state and appropriate state agency. State government agencies are familiar with federal program requirements, can assist local governments and nonprofit organizations with proposals, and can provide other guidance.

Constituent can find information on how to contact Illinois state agencies by searching <https://www2.illinois.gov/agencies> or reaching out to their State Representative or State Senator for assistance.

Illinois Catalog of State Financial Assistance (CSFA)

CSFA is a single, authoritative, statewide, comprehensive source document of State financial assistance program information. State agencies have populated the CSFA with federal, federal pass-through and state awards received. The CSFA also records grantee awards under each CSFA number. The public can search the CSFA for agencies with active grant programs, currently funded grants, current funding opportunities, and registered grantees.

Use the following link to access the CSFA: <https://www2.illinois.gov/sites/GATA/Grants/SitePages/CSFA.aspx>

For assistance with utilizing the CSFA contact:

PRIVATE, CORPORATE, AND ADDITIONAL FUNDING SOURCES

Groups seeking funding for projects need first to determine the most appropriate sources of funds. Because government funds may be limited, sources of private funding can also be considered. State and community foundations may be particularly interested in funding local projects; however, many projects may require a combination of government and private funding. Local business or private foundation funding might be appropriate for supporting local memorials or programs. Community fund-raising may be more suitable for some school enrichment activities, such as band or sports uniforms or field trips.

Below are some resources for assistance finding non-federal funding opportunities.

APPLYING FOR GRANTS

REGISTERING YOUR ORGANIZATION

Before your organization can apply for a federal grant, there are several steps an organization must complete prior to submitting an application. An organization is an entity that submits grant applications on behalf of the group, such as a state government, nonprofit organization, or a private business.

OBTAIN A DUNS NUMBER

A DUNS Number is a nine-digit non-indicative numbering sequence assigned to all types of business organizations including sole proprietorships, corporations, partnerships, non-profits, and government entities. It stays with a business throughout the lifecycle including name, address and corporate structure changes and even bankruptcy. The DUNS Number is issued free of charge for all entities wanting to do business with the U.S. Federal Government.

To obtain a DUNS number, call 1-866-705-5711 or visit <http://fedgov.dnb.com/webform>. You will need the following information to request a DUNS Number:

- Name of your organization
- Organization address
- Phone number of the organization
- Name of the CEO/organization owner
- Legal structure of the organization (corporation, partnership, proprietorship)
- Year the organization started
- Primary line of business
- Total number of employees (full and part time)

NOTE: By April of 2022, the federal government will stop using the DUNS number to uniquely identify entities registered in the System for Award Management (SAM). At that point, entities doing business with the federal government will use a unique entity identifier (UEI) created in SAM.gov. They will no longer have to go to a third-party website to obtain their identifier. Active registrants will have their UEI assigned and viewable within SAM.gov; there is no action for registered entities to take at this time. This transition allows GSA to streamline the entity identification and validation process, making it easier and less burdensome for entities to do business with the federal government. Users are not required to take any action at this time.

REGISTER WITH SAM

The System for Award Management (SAM) is an official website of the U.S. government. There is no cost to use SAM. Registering with SAM is a required step in order for your organization to be able to apply for federal grants. SAM is a web-based, government-wide application that collects, validates, stores, and disseminates business information about the federal government's trading partners in support of the contract awards, grants, and electronic payment processes.

You can access <https://www.sam.gov> and complete the online registration process. You also need the authorizing official of the organization to send a notarized letter to SAM and an EIN to complete the registration. Generally, after completing the online registration and sending your notarized letter, it takes up to two weeks to register with SAM, then one business day for updates made in SAM to be reflected in Grants.gov. However, your organization must first have an EIN. If your organization does not have an EIN, you should allow an additional 5 weeks to request and obtain an EIN from the IRS.

SUBMIT AN APPLICATION

Completing a grant application can take time and should be started as soon as possible. Before beginning an application, it's important to keep in mind:

- You must have a complete Grants.gov account. If you don't set up your account properly, you risk facing delays when you are ready to begin work on the application.
- You should read the Funding Opportunity Announcement's eligibility requirements carefully. You don't want to spend time on an application only to realize later that you are not eligible to apply.

For most federal grants, you will complete and submit your application through Grants.gov's workspace. Workspace allows a grant team to simultaneously access and edit different forms within an application. Plus, the forms can be filled out online or offline depending on what is best for the organization. How an organization manages their application on Grants.gov workspace will depend on the organization, how many Grants.gov users are within the organization or if the organization has hired a consultant, and more. For more information on using Grants.gov workspace including tutorial videos and informational articles, visit <https://www.grants.gov/web/grants/applicants/workspace-overview.html>

The application itself requires everything from basic organizational information, to explanations of proposed work and financial data. When an application package has been completed per the opportunity instructions and checked for errors, it can be submitted through Grants.gov. The basic sections of a standard grant proposal include the following:

- Cover letter
- Proposal summary or abstract
- Introduction describing the grant seeker or organization
- Problem statement (or needs assessment)
- Project objectives
- Project methods or design

GRANT MAKING AGENCIES

U.S. AGENCY FOR INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT (USAID)

USAID partners to end extreme poverty and to promote resilient, democratic societies while advancing our security and prosperity. Poverty is multi-dimensional, requiring an approach to address hunger and food insecurity, illiteracy and innumeracy, ill-health, dis-empowerment, marginalization, and vulnerability. USAID's Feed the Future, Global Health, Global Climate Change, and Power Africa initiatives target symptoms of and pathways out of poverty. USAID's work on education is already reaching millions in extreme poverty. Similarly, the organization's cross-cutting efforts in promoting democracy, rights and good governance, empowering women and girls, advancing prosperity, building resilient societies, and mitigating climate change are all essential to ending poverty.
